MATHEWSON INVINCIBLE IN ALL BUT ONE INNING.

In Which the Cubs Make Three Runs -Champions Tied With Pirates, Who Break Even With Phillies-Brooklyns Down Cardinals-Reds Trim Bostons.

The New York Nationals came another cropper in Chicago yesterday, although Mathewson pitched fine ball in all but one inning. The Cubs are now sharing second with the Pittsburgs, who broke even with the Phillies. The Pirates took three or of four games from the Quaker club. The Brooklyns did up the Cardinals and climber out of last place and the Cincinnatis trimmed the Boston band. The results:

Chicago, 3: New York, 2. Brooklyn, 4; St. Louis, 2. Pittsburg, 1; Philadelphia, 0-First Game. Philadelphia, 5: Pittsburg, 1-Second Game. Cincinnati, 7; Boston, S.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.-Carelessness on the bases beat New York to-day. It was 3 to 2, with Brown conquering Mathewson. The three fingered miner would never have pulled through if New York had played as the text book says it should be played.

In the first inning New York began a furious assault on Brown. Three of the five hits made off his delivery were tabbed right at the start. With one run in, two on bases and only one out, Mike Donlin dashed off second when a fly was falling into Evers's hands and a double play followed. In the fifth inning New York seemed sure of victory. The two other hits of the afternoon came with a base on balls. Only one out, full, and good hitters up, Donlin poked a long fly into left, scoring Tenney from third. Doyle, who was on second, ran a long fly into left, scoring Tenney low.y down the line, and the ball was waiting for him when he reached Steinfeldt's station seven of the nine innings New York made no hits off Brown. The Chicago pitche was wilder than usual, five passes being marked against him, but O'Day was severe on strikes was wilder than usual, five passes being marked against him, but O'Day was severe on strikes and balls. Mathewson was invincible, except for one inning, and in that one inning all the work was done that settled the game. In that fatal round—the fourth—five men made ranging hits—no flukes, but tearing swats of the most furious variety. Under the ground rules one of these was a double. The others were singles.

The ground rules incidentally were such as perhaps were never made before. So dense was the crowd back of first and so close to the base, line that it was agreed to make a hit among these ardent fans good for only a single base. Had the usual rule of two bases on anything into the crowd been followed the Cubs would have had five two bases on anything into the crowd been followed the Cubs would have had five two bases in that inning.

Both teams fielded splendidly. Every man was keyed up to the highest pitch and the way they dragged things down was dazzling and bewildering. The great crowd was on edge all the way through and went wild at the succession of startling plays.

The Chicago ball park never held its like before. When the gates opened for this afternoon's mammoth, mastodonic, colossal, gladiatorial entertainment it seemed as if all Chicago was waiting outside. In they came when the gates were opened—a rushing flood that kept the ticket takers on the jump. The men who sold tickets didn't have it so hard, for it was not long before the order had to go forth to sell no more tickets. The rush at the gate was terrific and the crush inside doubly so. The park is better equipped than many other baseball plants for the distribution of a multitude, but the park and its employees had their hands full to-day. The filling of the field was an interesting and amusing sight as the thousands scurried hither and thitche ham first of all and then banked up and the heart's sympathy went out to little men.

They filled the spaces back of first and third base first of all and then banked up behind the home plate. Then they marched into the outfield and banked themselves in piles around the spots where the fielders usually chase the ambient fly. When they got through coming in there was not room to catch a needle and it was evident that the outfielders were going to be more spectators than participants.

When the New Yorks came out for practice McGraw asked: "Why not play it in a hatbox?" His men, amid roars of applause and encouraging yells from people of their home town—at least 2,000 New Yorkers were there—flung the ball around as carefully as thay could, but every now and then a thrown or batted ball got by a fielder and into the public it went. Those who didn't get, hit yelled with glee.

thrown or batted bell got by a fielder and into the public it went. Those who didn't get hit yelled with glee.

Then came the Cubs, amid such noise as seldom is heard except at a college football game. Their practice in the limited territory was fast and pretty. The pitchers warmed up: the umpires came forth and the second great battle was at hand.

The gong rang with the great Brown perched upon the slab. Tenney hit the second ball pitched fer a bounder to short and beat it out. Doyle lifted to Hofman and Bresnahan hit sharply into right, Tenney going to third. Amid cries of horror Donlin sailed a great fly into the centre field crowd, scoring Tenney and taking two sacks. It looked like a bundle of runs, but Seymour raised a fly back of second. Donlin flew for third. Evers caught the fly and Mike was doubled up. In the Cubs' half Matty threw fearful curves and made both Sheckard and Chance whiff the breeze.

With two down in the second Bridwell walked. The crowd gave Mathewson great applause, but his answer was an easy grounder to Evers. The Cubs again went out painlessly.

walked. The crowd gave Mathewson great applause, but his answer was an easy grounder to Evers. The Cubs again went out painlessly.

Tenney started the third with a free ticket and Doyle sacrified. Brown's control seemed all to the bad and Bresnahan walked. Overall began to warm up at this juncture. Donian hot to Tinker, who got Tenney at third, a magnificent play. Hofman took Seymour's fly and the crowd shricked in relief.

They gave Tinker a hand as he came to bat, but all he could offer was a little poke to Matty. Brown also got the glad hand and drove out an apparent two bagger. O'Day called it foul, the crowd hooted and Brown bounded one to Mathewson.

New York faded away in the fourth. Then Hofman made Chicago's first hit, a crash into the left field crowd. Sheckard sacrificed and Chance hit the first ball pitched over Donlin's head, Hofman scoring. Evers cut one sharply past first. Steinfieldt smashed another to the same spot and Chance rushed in. Then still another whack to exactly the same place, scoring Evers, was accomplished by Howard and the populace became gibbering maniacs. Tinker and Kling were easy, but three runs had scored.

The New Yorks, stung and savage, began a fierce attack in the fifth. After Matty fanned Tenney and Doyle smote with great vigor Bresnahan was passed and the sacks were full, with one gone and Donlin sup. Sheckard caught Mike's fly amid the crowd, Tenney scoring. Doyle thought it a hit and was trotting to third when surprised by a sudden encounter with Steinfeldt and the ball. The Cubs went out in fast succession, Seymour capturing two flies.

With two gone in New York's half of the sixth, Barry was passed. Howard leaped high and just nailed Bridwell's drive. Three Gubs were retired in order, Donlin saving a two bagger by a catch in the multitude. The Giants died in succession in the seventh. Howard began Chicago's half with a single two centre and Tinker sacrificed. The next two were easy outs,

New York was desperate. McGraw urged his men to "lay 'em down." They did so in jam Hofman caught Bridwell's fly and it was all over The screaming myriads carried ithe Cubs away on their shoulders and then showered ounhions in a perfect gale. The Giants, twice defeated, were cheered and joshed genially by the mob and nobody threw any cushions at them.

In all probability Pfiester and Wiltse will work again to-morrow, the alternates being Reubsch and McClinity. The score:

BROOKLYN, 4: ST. LOUIS (N. L.), 2. St. Louis, Aug. 29.-Brooklyn moved up to seventh place again to-day through the courtesy of Bugs Raymond, who let down in the fifth. Brooklyn then got four runs on five hits, two bases on balls and two bac throws, and won, 4 to 2. Karger took up the pitching in the fifth and was effective. Rucker pitched a steady game, allowing only six hits and giving only one base on balls. A triple by Delehanty, a wild pitch, a stolen base and a single by Karger came in stolen base and a single by Karger came in the Cardinals' half of the fifth and netted the St. Louis team its two runs.

Kaymond opened his bad inning by passing Lewis. Ritter singled over first base, Lewis going to third. Sheehan singled to centre, Lewis scoring. Raymond tried to catch Sheehan off first, but his throw was bad and Sheehan got to second. Konetohy picked up the ball and tried for Ritter at third, but the ball bounded off Ritter's back toward the visitors' bench. Relly was after it like a flash and his throw to Moran got Ritter at the plate. Sheehan went to third on the play. Maloney walked and Rucker popped to Byrne. Maloney walked and Rucker popped to Byrne. Maloney stole second. Alperman singled to right, Sheehan and Maloney scoring. were beaten twice by the White Sox. They were whitewashed in the first game and didn't score until the ninth inning of the second. The Bas Blancs had six runs in their trophy kit when the Highland laddies came to ba in the ninth and didn't make any stupendous efforts to frustrate the New York navigation of the circuit. About the time the Hillites were putting the finishing touches to the louble shuffle off of their mortal coil for the lay the dispiriting intelligence came from chicago that the Cubs had again polished off the New York Nationals, and the baseball atmosphere on the isle of Manhattan was estooned with gloom.

The serpentine twisters of Doc White in the first game and the sebaceous slants of Frank Strongarm Smith in the next encom passed the double downfall of the Elberfelders. White sheared the edges of the plate and had the New Yorks, bending over and hitting with the handles of their bats. Smith and had the New Yorks, bending over and hitting with the handles of their bats. Smith had a speedy spitter which flaished its flight with a drop that broke at a right angle. He struck out Moriarty three times, Mory strubk out twice in the previous game, making five straight times he fanned. Because he couldn't hit he was subjected to contemptible jeering from individuals seated at a safe distance away in the stands. Some persons enjoy nothing so much as the ill fortune of others.

Most of the briskness of the afternoon was confined to the first game. The second one dragged, and the New Yorks were a filleded with lassitude. The Box were a stronger team with Davis and Jones back in the fold. The New Yorks would have won the first set-to had they been able to lay against the ball at all with men on bases. In the first inning Conroy bumped the first ball pitched for two bases and McIlveen walked. Chase tried twice to sacrifice and missed both times, then swung at a wide pitch out as Conroy tried to steal third. The Sox were onto the hit and run play as large as life, and the pitch out enabled Sullivan to double Conroy. Crude inside work.

Laporte's fumble in the third was responsible for the only run of the game. White was safe on the misplay and Hahn's two baser brought him the rest of the way. It was rough on Chesbro, who pitched a steady, effective game. Ches opened the second half of the third with a booming triple over Fielder Jones's head and there he languished while have come in on Chase's slow bounder to Parent, but didn't try to. As it was the second out the chance was worth taking. Parent was a busy worker. They couldn't come too fast or too hard for him.

In the second game the batting of Jones and Isbell was sufficient in itself to beat the New Yorks. Jones made three hits and three runs, besides batting in two runs. Isbell made three hits and batted in two runs. Isbell made three hits and batted in two runs. Isbell made three hits and batted in two runs. Isbell made three hits and batted in two runs. it was necessary to get the ball over. Bisir slapped the leather on Jones, but as it was the fourth ball Jones was forced in and wasn't out. Isbell tried to sneak in while players of both sides were buzzing around Connolly, arguing pro and con, and was touched out. The New Yorks made two runs in the ninth on a two bagger by Conroy, the only reliable sticker on the New York side of the afternoon, a base on balls, a force out and Hemphill's sacrifice fly. A couple of stope by Chase are worthy of mention. Hal went up in the air for one throw and dug another up out of the ground by a wide one handed reach. The

The Pitiburgs have done better on the road than at home talls season. They have lost more than they have won at home, and as they have a good deal of road work to do there may be hope for them yet.

CLEVELAND. BROWN & CO. ON MONDAY. Buchanan Expects That the Maine Ex-Cor gressman Will Find the Affairs of the Firm in Splendid Shape-Attitude

Ex-Congressman Charles E. Littlefield of Maine, who has been practising law in this city since he resigned from Congress last spring, was the receiver appointed yesterday for the suspended Stock Exchange firm of A. O. Brown & Co. United States Judge Holt made the appointment at his summer home at Woodstock, Conn., following the application made before him on Friday by William C. Rosenberg of House Grossman & Vorhaus, counsel for the creditors of the firm who have started bankruptcy proceedings.

Judge Holt fixed the receiver's bond a $250,000. Mr. Littlefield did not qualify yesterday, but is expected to do so to morrow, at which time it is likely that he will name his attorney. The appointment of a man of Mr. Littlefield's calibre was received with extreme satisfaction not only by the creditors of the A. O. Brown concern and the firm itself but by the entire financial district. Wall Street has confidence not only in Mr. Littlefield's legal attainments but also in his ability to manage successfully the affairs of a bankrupt brokerage house whose business has been as extensive as has that of A. O. Brown & Co.

Mr. Littlefield said yesterday that his appointment came as a complete surprise. He said he had had no business relations in the past either with A. O. Brown & Co. or with any of the largest creditors. He was unacquainted thus far with the affairs of the firm except what had got into the newspapers, but said he would be in touch with the attorneys for the creditors and Assignee Rhoades on Monday.

Moses H. Grossman, of counsel for the creditors, said that even if the creditors had been allowed to suggest the received they couldn't have named a man who would be more acceptable than Mr. Littlefield. He wouldn't be prepared to say what cours? the creditors will pursue now until he has conferred with the receiver, and whatever is done will be with the ap-proval of Mr. Littlefield.

and whatever is done will be with the approval of Mr. Littlefield.

Edward Lauterbach, of counsel for A. O. Brown & Co., when asked yesterday if there was any point of law which would prevent the receiver from making public the names of the clients of the concern who participated in the remarkable transactions of a week ago said that the receiver could probably do as he liked. He said that the firm would undoubtedly persist in its refusal to divulge to the Stock Exchange committee facts which it considered wholly of a private nature.

None of the members of the firm was at the office yesterday and the only one who weald comment on the appointment of Mr. Littlefield was E. F. Buchanan, who said:

said:

"I have left the matter entirely with our attorneys, but I wish to say that I am pleased that a gentleman of such high standing and ability as Mr. Littlefield was appointed. He will undoubtedly be fair and impartial and unless I am greatly mistaken will find the affairs of the firm in splendid share."

splendid shape."
When asked whether the firm had changed when asked whether the him had changed its attitude toward the banks and exchange authorities Mr. Buchanan said:
"Not in the slightest degree. It is my intention to fight it out with them to the end, which I think is my duty to our clients as well as to our firm.

end, which I think is my duty to our clients as well as to our firm.

"I think this affair is a great deal more outrageous and that there is a great deal more to it than is generally believed outside of Wall Street circles," added Mr. Buchanan, "but it will all come out in due time. When it does come out I think it will be valuable information for the public in general."

in general."

It was said yesterday by one of the law-yers concerned in the bankruptcy proceed-ings that there was no reason why a great deal of information should become public through that channel relating to the firm's clients who participated in the 1,500,000 share dealings a week ago Saturday. There is no doubt that the names of a great manh of the clients will become known througe the examination that will probably by made by the receiver of the members of the firm, but so long as there are sufficien assets to pay the claims of the creditors they have no concern in the details of last Saturday's doings, this lawyer said.

KENT BEATS THE QUAKERS. On a Sodden Wicket Philadelphians Lose the Advantage Gained Early.

CANTERBURY, Aug. 29.—Despite the good lead made on their first day's play the Gentlemen of Philadelphia lost their match against the Kent eleven, which was brought to a conclusion to-day. The rain of yesterday put the wickets in a sodden condition and it proved to be a bowler's day, especially in the early part of the play. Kent won by 4 wickets. When play was resumed this morning Hutchings was able to add but 6 to his score, losing his wicket to a straight ball from King for 8. Humphreys made a short stand for the ninth wicket and in stepping out of his ground to reach a ball from Lester was quickly stumped by Winter, when he had tallied 14. Fairservice quickly scored 14 and was still Needing 124 runs to win, the Kent captain sent in Marsham and Mason, and 20 was scored before a separation ensued, the former being caught by Hordern for 2. Seymour then filled the vacancy and soon after Mason was bowled by Hordern for 18. A substitute who took S. H. Day's place scored 8 before being bowled by Lester, who disposed of Wooley for 13 and Hutchings for a duck. Seymour and Humphreys then got together and the necessary number of runs was almost reached when the former was caught, by White for an invaluable innings of 34. Blaker then joined Humphreys and before either was disposed of the match was won with 4 wickets to spare. Humphreys hit freely and scored 43 not out. Lester was most successful with the ball in this innings, obtaining 4 wickets for 28 runs. Beginning Monday a two days game will be played against a team to be known as Grantham and District. The score: filled the vacancy and soon after Mason was GENTLAMEN OF PHILADELPHIA

GOSSIP OF WALL STREET.

The same stocks which were strong on Fri day were strong again yesterday, and the trading in them was again the most conspicuous TO TAKE CHARGE OF A. O. but the market, particularly in the last hour, was broader and seemed as a whole under better control than on any previous day of the week. There were no news development to account for the continued strength and improved range of the market, and the ad-vance was again attributed to the speculaive operations of a small but powerful bull Toward the Exchange Not Changed. party, which has pounded the various bear contingents into abject submission.

The first hour was dull, with prices of many stocks sagging below the level of Friday's close. The demonstration of strength was reserved for the second hour, and it appeared to traders that the market leaders were resorting to the old device of endeavoring to attract public interest by a show of strength at the week end. It may also have been the idea to convince the public and traders alike that the market influence of the uproar or the preceding Saturday and of the develop ents since that day was a thing of the past.

Interesting figures in the bank statement were an increase of $12,000,000 in cash and a decrease of $6,000,000 in loans by one bank, a decrease of $14,500,000 in cash and an inrease of $12,500,000 in loans by another.

Reading's statement of earnings for July showed the anthracite coal trade at its worst in that month, for the receipts of the Reading Coal and Iron Company were $1,001,375 less than in the corresponding month of last year. This decrease was, however, offset to the extent of $014,000 by a decrease in expenses. A decrease of $548,000 in the receipts of the railway company was, on the other hand, only partly reduced by a saving in expenses, and the net earnings of all companies showed a decrease of $510,000 from the form from the figures for July, 1907. Bullish en thusiasm on the stock seemed but little tem pered by this unfavorable showing, for the Street long ago lost the habit of buying Read-ing for any other reason than the value of its coal properties. The road's current earnings are little regarded.

Consolidated Gas scored a further advance and there was heard more of the talk of the prospect of a favorable decision in the 80 cent gas case. That suit and the suit testing the commodity clause of the Hepburn bill have been made to do valiant service, it was remarked, throughout the summer, and since a decision in either suit is unlikely before October there is still abundant time to bet on what the United States Supreme Court will do. A pure wager on the court's decision has been the essence of much of the buying of both Consolidated Gas and the stocks of the hard coal roads.

The principal bull argument of the day was deduced from the American Railway Association's report on idle cars. The report showed an increase of 28,000 in the number of cars in service on August 19 as compared with August 5, a gain greater than in an other period of two weeks since June. The gain was greater in coal and gondola cars than in box cars, as was the case in the last previous report on idle cars, and this circum stance was used to support the contention that the railroads are gaining traffic from an increased activity in manufacturing as well as from the movement of the crops. While public interest in the stock market is much less than in the days preceding the A. O. Brown & Co. laundry business, the bond market was strong and active throughout the week, the continued low rates for money bringing funds in greater and greater amounts into the better class of securities. Brokers considered this one of the few favorable development + of the week. One of the evidences of matching order was said to have been secured by the Stock Exchange investigating committee was an incident of a broker who went on the floor in the uproar of the preceding Saturday with a legitimate order for the purchase of 2,000. As soon as he made his bid he heard from another broker the question "What's your number?

It was recalled that It has been in periods of adversity that the Stock Exchange has established the most important reforms in the methods of doing business, and brokers were insistent that the present period of depression should witness a repetition of this history. The conservative members of the exchange tay as much stress upon the necessity of reform now as they did on the days immediately following the wildly manipulated market. In this encouraging reports were heard in regard to the investigating committee, which, it was said, had secured very important evi PITTSBUBG, Aug. 29,-Lawrence Goshora, delinquent tax collector, notified the Pennsylvania Railroad Company that unless the taxes for 1907 were paid the company's property in Pittsburg would be advertised for sale. The company to-day paid the taxes, amounting to $302,465.81, under protest.

The railroad has appealed to the courts from the valuation placed on the property to save in Pittsburg proper, which is taxed from the valuation placed on the property it owns in Pittsburg proper, which is taxed at $284,340.72, the remainder of the taxes being for property assessed on the North Side, formerly Allegheny.

The railroad company when first warned that its property would be advertised for sale defied the city tax collector and gave as a reason that as the valuation was being contested the property could not be advertised. The company's attorney decided not to take any chances, however, as the advertising of the property would have added 5 per cent. to the present amount.

Undoubtedly a large number of railway men from the United States have come over to help break the strike.
